

telc preparatory courses at the Mariaspring language center

The Mariaspring language center also offers preparatory courses for the "telc C1 Hochschule" exam ("telc-VB"-courses).

The "telc C1 Hochschule" examination format is a recognized German language examination for university admission alongside the DSH and TestDaF and is becoming increasingly popular. However, a very good knowledge of German at C1 level alone is not sufficient for success in the exam. It is also essential to prepare specifically for the special features of the telc examination format, which differs significantly from the DSH and TestDaF.

We are pleased to be able to offer this preparation here at Mariaspring in a familiar environment and at a very affordable price.

Who is the preparation course suitable for?

The "telc C1 Hochschule" exam is aimed at German learners who have successfully achieved level C1 (i.e. C1.1 + C1.2). The difficulty of the tasks in the preparation course corresponds to this level expectation.

The preparation course is therefore primarily suitable for participants who have already completed a C1.1 course. However, participation is generally possible for all course participants who have already completed at least a B2.2 course.

Consequently, the following can register:

- participants who have already completed a C1.1 course (passed or failed the exam)
- participants who are currently taking a C1.1 course
- participants who have already completed a B2.2 course (passed or failed the exam)

Participants of the preparatory course can already reserve a seat for a "telc C1 Hochschule" exam. The exams are held monthly in Braunschweig at our partner institute "inlingua Braunschweig".
